Interviews take place late May, with training commencing the following year in late January/ February. Face to Face interviews are held in Melbourne and applicants must be available to attend the interview in person.

4. Requirements during Training:

The following requirements are mandatory for trainees to satisfactorily complete training:

1. Keep a detailed logbook of all operative experience, in the format provided by ANZGOSA, using the RACS MALT system.
2. Take part in an ongoing assessment programme.
3. Attend for annual face to face interview at the Trainees weekend or other time as assigned
4. Attend the annual Post Fellowship Trainees Weekend
5. Complete a research project in conjunction with ANZGOSA unit in order to produce a publication in a peer reviewed journal and a presentation at a state, national or international meeting.
6. Participate in Journal Club meetings.

5. Selection of Trainees:

Members of the ANZGOSA training committee, and co-opted persons as deemed appropriate, will be the selection panel for the Programme. The selection panel will consider the applications prior to short-listing if necessary, and interview the applicants. All applicants will be notified of the results of their application, in writing, by the Chairman of the ANZGOSA Training Committee.

NOTE: Evidence of FRACS is required before an applicant will be scheduled for interview.

6. Training:

The training programme as designed for each successful applicant will vary. Applicants preferences will be considered, but the final allocation of positions will be by the ANZGOSA training committee according to the needs of the training programme. The two years of training will generally be undertaken in two different cities, except under exceptional circumstances. A fellow must have each year in different hospital units. A year of overseas training in a pre-approved post or a year of research in an approved research unit is possible during the Programme.

7. Supervisors of Training:

The supervisors will be appointed by ANZGOSA after nomination by the Head of the Hospital GI Surgical Unit. Their responsibilities will include the structure and supervision of the individual training posts, ensuring that assessment forms are completed and discussed prior to return to the Chairman of the Training committee.

8. Certification

At the completion of the programme, the ANZGOSA Training Committee will review the training and a final assessment will be conducted. Successful completion of the programme will occur when all mandatory criteria have been met, satisfactory reports received from the supervisors of training, research completed and after final assessment review by the training committee. A certificate of completion of satisfactory training will be presented at a ceremony the following year.
